Happy Wednesday Serenades West Orange Friends and Family!

Hurricane Idalia officially made landfall at 7:45 am along the coast of Florida's Big Bend near Keaton Beach.

I stayed over at the community last night to ensure our residents were safe and were not in need of anything during the storm. We had a pajama popcorn party last night and luckily did not lose power, although if we did we have our generator ready to go in case we needed it.

Families are more than welcome to come visit as normal throughout the storm, please just drive safe. We have also partnered with many sitter/companion companies who will come out and spend time with your loved one as extra support during the storm. If you would like more information on those, please reach out to me directly at kcollazo@serenadesbysonata.com
